ti 660 Foochow, March, 1869, WI!H T E PUNTI AND MANDARIN PRONUNCIATION. HE Partnership hitherto existing under the An Angl. Chinese Dictionary, by the Rev. W. LOBSCHEID, publish dat the Daily Press Office, Hongkong. MOR scope and practical service this Work stands unrivalled. All that new words Mr. JOHN R. HOOPER has established him - pelled to coin to express the numerous objects which the Chinese have of late years been comself under the style of John R. Hooper & Co., In machinery, photography, telegraphy, and in at 32, Great St. Helens, London, and will act science generally, which the rapid advance of forcign relations has imposed upon them, are here given in extenso. Each and every word is fully illustrated and explained, forming exercises for students of a most instructive nature. Both the Court and Punti pronunciations are given, the accents being carefully marked on the best principle bitherto attained. The typography displays the success of an attempt to make the Chinese and English type correspond in the size of body, thereby effecting a vast economy of space, achieving a clearness not previously attained, and dispensing with those Gourock Bleached and Boiled CANVAS, vast margins and vacuat spaces which have heretofore characterized Chineso publications.

The scope of the work is so great, and its utilitarian purposes so complete, that a reference to its pages enables a person who understands English to communicate effectively with natives who understand nothing but Chinose, In this respect the work will be found indispensable to all Europeans residing in China, and to the natives themselves it explains subjects fully, with which very few indeed of them are perfectly acquainted. To parties resident in England and interested in China it cannot but be invaluable occasionally. It comprises upwards of two thousand large
